

The straightforward approach to analytical web tools

How can clients track your fund performance?

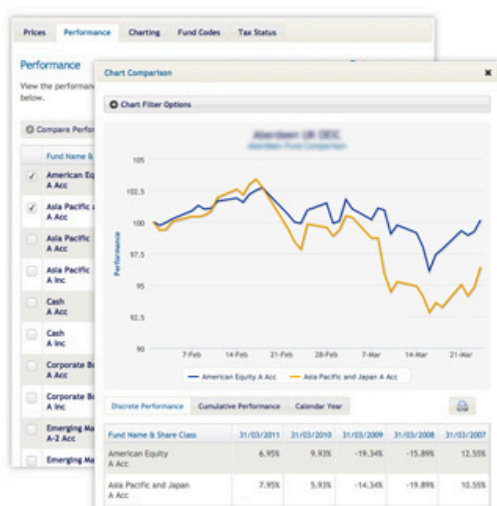

Asset management is all about performance. Clients demand up to the minute market data that's easy to manipulate using analytical tools. Embedding interactive technology into your website satisfies this need, whilst driving the customer engagement that underpins all great relationships. Unfortunately, market data can be tough to manage, but that's where Kurtosys Tools can help. We handle the market data so you don't have to.

Kurtosys Tools centrally houses market data from multiple sources, such as Lipper and MorningStar. We use it to power a whole spectrum of interactive charts and analytical web tools. Efficient information exchange is enabled via performance tables and daily feeds and on-demand document libraries can be created for knowledge hungry clients. In essence, we'll enhance your website's appeal whilst reducing your operational workload.

Isn't it time to simplify your approach to market data?
